

600+ THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH A LAW DEGREE (Other than practice law.)

Discover the vast array of career possibilities for lawyers beyond the mainstream practice areas.

Alternative legal careers are rapidly growing in popularity. We have been monitoring non-traditional, law-related employment opportunities since the inception of our AttorneyJobs: The National and Federal Legal Employment Report in 1979. Several years later, we published our first of several books on the subject and have addressed this topic before numerous attorney and law school audiences.

The list of job titles that follows is a compilation of more than 600 currently active legal employment opportunities across all employment sectors--private, public, and nonprofit--that have either appeared in the AttorneyJobs: The National and Federal Legal Employment Report or have come to our attention via other sources, including our career counseling clients who have successfully made the transition from traditional law practice into rewarding alternative careers where their law degrees and legal training are highly valued and relied upon.

Law-related positions are found in every employment sector and virtually every industry and economic endeavor--corporations, trade associations, professional associations, every level of government, advocacy organizations, foundations, colleges and universities, accounting firms, hospitals, museums, even law firms. Every time we think our list is complete, we discover new jobs and careers where a law degree and legal training are prized. Thus, we are continually adding to our list.

We define law-related careers as fields wherein a law degree is not required, but is nevertheless a considerable asset. Attorneys have the requisite training and qualifications to prosper in many different fields. Hiring officials in these law-related areas have become increasingly attuned to the value to their organizations of having lawyers occupy these positions.

Please note that many of the careers listed below may legitimately fit into more than one category, e.g., Law Firm Business Development Editor (Marketing and Development as well as Media and Entertainment); Affirmative Action Specialist (Human Resources as well as Civil Rights), Environmental Claims Specialist (Insurance and Risk Management as well as Environmental Careers), etc. Space limitations compel us to list these "cross-disciplinary careers" only once.

The topical headings we have chosen are not the only ones that could have been selected. For example, you will not see a heading entitled "Administrative Law," which we felt was too general for the purpose of this list. Specific job titles could be listed under other topical headings, depending upon the classifier's opinion.

Among its many services to the legal community, our Nationwide Career Counseling for Attorneys (NCCA) and Sutherland Hermann Associates subsidiaries specialize in advising attorneys contemplating career transitions on law-related career opportunities and prospective employers in each of these career fields. Through the years, we have advised thousands of lawyers seeking to transition from mainstream law into law-related careers, and the demand for this specialized counseling is increasing all the time.
